

HEALTHFUL HEATING

FRESH AIR in the house and in abundance is the crying need of the 20th Century. Our Scientists preach it, our Doctors urge it, the magazines are devoting pages to it. It can best be introduced, not through windows, doors and faulty construction, but by the installation of a good warm air Furnace. Try "THE BAY STATE,"

The Fresh Air Heater.

YALE SOCIETIES
TOLD TO REFORM

New Haven, June 25.—The leading point in the annual report of Director Russell H. Chittenden of the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University, this year, is his criticism of the society system of the school, where there are six societies owning their dormitories, representing property of great value. The fact that the school has now begun to build its own dormitories has brought the question into prominence.

The director, referring to the problem, criticizes severely the society system of the school. He says that the interests of the societies and scholarship in the school are antagonistic, as is proved by the fact that a much larger number of conditions in scholarship in proportion to numbers have been incurred by society men than by students outside of the societies. It is also proved, he says, by the fact that a good many men entering the freshman class belonging to the societies are dropped at the end of the first term or later in the year, notwithstanding that a considerable portion of them enter the school with good or fair records in scholarships. The director says that such conditions have been demoralizing both to the individuals who have suffered the penalty of neglected scholarship, and others whose standards of scholarship are indirectly affected.

Mr. Chittenden adds that unless a speedy solution of this problem is reached by the parties more directly interested in the governing board of the Sheffield Scientific School will be compelled to exercise its power with a view to remedying the evils which at present unquestionably exist.

The final report of Dean Wright of the Yale academic department, closing his twenty-five years in office, has been completed. One chapter deals with the entrance examinations to Yale. He shows that there is a steady increase of candidates for admission who offer substitutes for Greek, but he declares that men who offer Greek are the better scholars. Also that in the choices of the freshmen who can take five out of eight studies, Latin and English are the favored studies. The dean says college entrance board examinations are improving.

MEN PAST FIFTY IN DANGER.

Men past middle life have found comfort and relief in Foley's Kidney Remedy, especially of enlarged prostate gland, which is very common among elderly men. L. E. Morris Dexter, Ky., writes: "Fifty to sixty years ago my father suffered from kidney and bladder trouble and several physicians pronounced it enlargement of the prostate gland and advised an operation. On account of his age we were afraid he could not stand it and I recommended Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the first bottle relieved him, and after taking the second bottle he was no longer troubled with this complaint."
